

CASA DI CITT'A

Client: Towny Quinn

Italian Village Neighborhood, Columbus, Ohio

Located in historic Italian Village, Casa di Citt'a on Warren Street is an urban infill development that capitalizes on the renewed interest in urban living in the Short North neighborhood of Columbus. An existing two story commercial building was preserved, and is leased as office space. The apartments are organized around an auto-court, which is located behind the units facing Warren Street. The streetscape is designed to transition between the more urban western part (which is a block off High Street), with curb/walks and tree grates, and the more typical Italian Village residential street with tree lawns and sidewalks to the east.
